Fine Entertainment.

A charming entertainment was given by our home people in Brua Chapel on Tuesday evening of last week for the benefit of the town Y. M. C. A. It is a fact that we take great pleasure in voicing that many of our home entertainments are in every way superior to many of the attractions brought here from a distance. This was the fact on the occasion last week. It is a delight to be charmed and carried away with the talent of our people, the talent we always have about us, expressed in vocal and instrumental music, reading and recitation. The following was the program at the Y. M. C. A. entertainment which netted that organization $48

Reading, one of the charming Pennsylvania German stories "The Restoration of Mellie" by Miss Elsie Singmaster.

Soprano solos, Lehman's bird songs, the Woodpigeon, the Starling, the Yellowhammer and the Owl by Miss Rena Miller.

Soprano and Contralto Duet Hildach's —Passage—Buda—Farewell by Miss Ruth Clutz and Mrs. Link of York.

Piano Solo, Barcarolle Forks de Concert by Mrs. J. B. Baker.

Contralto Solo, Bohm's Still as the Night and Dessauer's To Savilla by Mrs. Link.

Soprano Solos, Rogers' Love has Wings, Burleigh's Jean and Chadwick's The Danza by Miss Ruth Clutz

Piano Duet, Mozarts' Overture to Don Juan by Mrs. J. B. Baker and Miss Reba Miller.

Contralto Solos, Speaks' To You, Schumann's The Ring, and Ware's Boat Song by Mrs Link.

Like Finding Money.

L. M. Buehler, the popular druggist is making an offer that is just like finding money for he is selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half-price. In addition to this large discount he agrees to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy fifty cent pieces for a quarter, but that is what this offer really means, for it is only recently through the solicitation of Druggist L. M. Buehler that this medicine could be bought for less than fifty cents. He urged the proprietor to allow him to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell a certain amount. The result has justified his good judgement for the sale has been something remarkable

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, L. M. Buehler will return your money.

Apple Canning Plant at Orrtanna.

The Musselman Canning Company of Biglerville will erect at once at Orrtanna an apple canning plant corresponding in size and capacity with their Biglerville plant. The Orrtanna people were asked to furnish the land and in short order secured the money and two sites were offered and when the sites were inspected last week by C. H. Musselman he accepted the site at the east end of the place, along the railroad, and near the buildings on the Bowers farm. This site will give easy access to a switch into the property and also to the farmers hauling their fruit. The Biglerville plant employs over 100 hands in the season and a daily supply of 1000 bushels of apples is needed and plans are being made for buildings that will duplicate this output. The Orrtanna plant will be well located to be of easy access to many orchards in the western part of the county.

OLDEST CITIZEN OF CO. DEAD

HENRY JAMES BRINKERHOFF OF BOROUGH OF GETTYSBURG

Reached Remarkable Age of 93 Years, 3 Months and 26 Days.

HENRY JAMES BRINKERHOFF, the oldest citizen of Gettysburg and oldest citizen of the County met death last Friday in what may be said to have been an accidental way after reaching the remarkable age of 93 years, 3 months and 26 days. On Friday morning in getting out of bed he fell on the floor but apparently was unhurt, about noon he went to sleep, never awakening, death coming at about half past eleven in the evening.

It is believed that the fall in his old condition proved such a shock as to result in death. Mr Brinkerhoff was born on what is known as the Cleveland farm and spent the first twenty five years of his life on this farm. In 1838 he married Jane Wills of Mummasburg, and moved to that place where he went into the tanning business, conducting the old tannery there for over thirty years and prospering at the business In 1871 he removed to Gettysburg, buying the old property on the site of his present residence. Always of an enterprising spirit, he soon erected the three story building on Baltimore St. one of the first improvements on second square of that Street and when built was one of the most pretentious buildings in the business part of this town. At his place of business in Gettysburg he conducted a leather store for forty years, retiring only about a year ago when his advancing age made it impossible to give his attention to the work. For many years he was a director in the Mummasburg Insurance Company. He always took great interest in the advancement of his town and county. He was ever an ardent supporter of Democratic principles and enjoyed during the length of his days the high respect of the people of the county and communities in which he lived. He lost his first wife about two years after their marriage and of this union a daughter survives, Mrs. Wm. Irvin of West Middle St. this place. In 1845 he married Catherine Steiger, who died just one year ago to the day, Feb 2, at the age of 90 years and from this union one son survives, Henry J. Brinkerhoff Jr. of Baltimore St. He is survived by sixteen grandchildren. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, Feb. 6, services being conducted in St. Francis Xavier church by Rev Father Dougherty and interment being made in the Catholic Cemetery.

EDWIN BAIR of Cumberland township died last Saturday morning after a short illness, aged about 60 years. The funeral was held on Sunday with interment in the Evergreen cemetery, services conducted by Rev. J. B. Baker. He leaves a widow and two children, Moses Bair of Gettysburg, and Mrs. John Sponseller of near Gettysburg. Also the following brothers and sisters: Jeremiah, Jacob and William Bair, of near White Hall, Amos of York, John A. Bair and Mrs. Henry Myers of Mt. Pleasant township.

MRS. ANN MARGARET COOVER died in Harrisburg on Jan. 25, 1912, in her 85th year. The body was taken to Johnstown for interment. One son and three daughters mourn the loss of a devoted mother, the son being Prof. M. Coover, D.D., of the Seminary of this place.

JACOB NAGLE of Hanover died last Thursday from paralysis aged 68 yrs. Death came after an illness of five days. The funeral was held on Sunday, services by Rev. M. J. Roth, interment in Hanover cemetery. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nagle, Sr., of Berwick township, this county. He is survived by his wife, who be-

College News.

The Announcement Bulletin of Gettysburg College just published from the COMPILER press shows the addition of several new elective subjects on which entrance credit will be allowed in the future. This will prove especially advantageous to candidates desiring to take an engineering course.

During the last week, Prof. Kirby, head of the Engineering Department gave a course of lectures at Yale University on "Engineering Specifications" in which field he is an acknowledged expert. A new edition of Prof. Kirby's book on Cement Testing has been printed by the COMPILER Print Shop.

The Class of 1907 Gettysburg College have agreed to pay for the wiring of old Pennsylvania Hall for electric lights. This historic building is intimately associated with the events connected with the Battle of Gettysburg Before the battle opened Generals Buford and Reynolds of the Union forces used the tower of the building for observation purposes and later General Lee of the Confederates did the same. After the first day's battle this building was used as a Confederate hospital. Hundreds of amputations and other surgical operations were performed in the very rooms now occupied by the students of Gettysburg College. The Gettysburg Battlefield Commission are prepairing an historical tablet to place on this building.

To Mothers in This Town.

A New Millinery Store.

Early in March Misses Louise and Lillie Christman will open a millinery store in the Brinkerhoff building, No. 137 Baltimore street, opposite the new Post-office site. Room now occupied by J. Wm Hull, the jeweler.

FIGHT FOR LINCOLN WAY

REPORT OF COMMISSION PUTS DECISION UP TO CONGRESS.

Congressman in Charge of the Fight Declare that the Lincoln Way Will Win Out.

The Lincoln Memorial Commission, headed by President Taft, reached a decision last week to report to Congress in favor of the Potomac Park site. Speaker Champ Clark and ex-Speaker Joseph Cannon, members of the commission, are quoted strongly in favor of the Lincoln Way and the report of the commission will be considered by Congress and the final decision made. The public announcement of the decision of the commission has had the effect to unite the opponents of the Potomac Park site in favor of the great highway to Gettysburg.

In Washington it is said there is every indication that the fight will reach much larger proportions than merely a squabble over where the memorial is to be placed. The believers in Federal aid for roads are said to be working for the Lincoln Way in the belief that it will prove the opening wedge for other federally constructed highways

The Gettysburg Park Commission, the Lincoln Memorial Association, the Grand Army of the Republic, many good roads organizations and many organized labor bodies have indorsed the Lincoln Way and are expected to appear before the House Committee in support of it.

Representative Borland of Missouri will lead the fight and will have Speaker Clark giving him active assistance and it is said Speaker Clark may take the floor for the Lincoln Way. The bill of Congressman Borland is along the lines of the bill introduced into the House by Congressman Lafean in every Congress for the last five years. There will be no partizanship or politics in the fight, Congressman Lafean with Uncle Joe Cannon and other Republican members will be actively working for the Lincoln Way, leaving nothing undone to secure the necessary votes.

The Borland bill providing for a highway will be offered as a substitute for the bill providing for a memorial in Potomac Park and the commission will be instructed to proceed with the [illegible] ranged for a hearing of his bill before the House Library Committee on Mar. 5th and preparations have begun for a thorough airing of the sentiments of the memorial road advocates at that time.

Mr. Lafean and Mr. Borland have been at work ever since the present session of Congress began making friends for the Lincoln Way and have thoroughly canvassed the attitude of Congress toward the Way.

Congressman Borland is quoted in the Washington papers as saying that he has assurances that the majority of the members of the House are in favor of the Way. Congressman Lafean speaks very confidently of the passage of the bill for the Lincoln Way in the present Congress and bases his hopes on the many promises made to him of votes for the Way.

Trolley Plans.

The extension of trolley service from Hanover to Gettysburg is being planned by the Hanover & McSherrystown Street Railway Company, it is said. Plans for the work have been prepared and it is believed to be likely that the work will be started in the spring. The distance to Gettysburg is about eleven miles. Another branch to New Oxford is proposed also, and plans for this have been prepared. The fact that surveyors have been at work in that section for some time gave rise to the rumor that the York Railways Company intended extending its line from Hanover to Gettysburg, but this report was denied. That the Hanover & McSherrystown Street Railway company is seriously considering the Gettysburg and New Oxford extensions is indicated by the work already done in the interest of that corporation

Parent-Teachers' Association.

An unusually good program has been prepared for this month's meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association on Friday evening, Feb. 9th, at 7.30 o'clock in the High School Building. The College Orchestra will play a couple selections. Miss Ruth Wills will sing with Miss Margaret Wills as pianist. A piano duet by Miss Reba Miller and Miss Louise Stahle A reading will be given by one of the college students. Mrs. Helen Keith will represent the local Mothers' Association in a short paper. County Superintendent M. H. Roth will introduce Dr. George J. Becht, secretary of the State Board of Education, and Dr. S. E. Weber, a dean in State College, who will make addresses relative to the work of the association. Everybody cordially invited.

MRS. L. DOW OTT, Chairman Com.

Signal Corps Monument.

The Senate Committee on Military Affairs agreed last Thursday to report favorably a bill by Senator Penrose for a monument to the signal corps in the Civil War at Gettysburg, Pa. The shaft will cost $7,500 and will be erected on Little Round Top.

NOTICE —I am prepared to manufacture Brooms for money or shares, will also recane chairs.

DR. WILEY DISCUSSES "BACK TO THE FARM."

Farming requires the greatest industry, the keenest intellect, and the best training of all of the professions.

A day's skilled labor on the farm at the present time produces twice as much food as it did fifty years ago.

Paying cash for labor is a burden to the farmer which is well-nigh intolerable; and yet if he does his own work, he must either have a very small farm or a very large family of boys and girls, who, moreover, are likely to leave him as they approach their majority.

What, then, are we to do to stop the flowing of the best blood of the farm to the city? The answer, it seems to me, is a simple one: make the farm a more productive place than the city, and its prospects for a career more certain.

When people come back from the city to the farm, as I picture the farm in the future, it will not be to lead a life of dreary labor, but rather to engage in an occupation which will command intelligence and the best business capacity.

When the city comes back to the country, it will come with culture, with intelligence, and with knowledge. The science and art of agriculture, drafting into its service, as it is doing at the present time, every other science, will so increase productivity that no Malthus nor Sir William Crooks will ever arise again and prophesy starvation for humanity.—Extracts from an article by Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, in the February "Century."

Cuzco, Sacred City of the Incas

Cuzco, in Peru, the sacred city of the Incas, their capital, and for many years after its conquest by Pizarro, in 1534, the capital of the Spaniards, is undoubtedly the most historically interesting city of South America. It lies on a hill-side, at the head of and facing a beautiful valley. At its back a range of low mountains; in front, as if closing the valley, Mount Biancopala (altitude over twenty thousand feet), the snows and glaciers of which rank among the finest in the Andes. Its population of some twenty-six thousand is mainly (four-fifths) composed of Indians, whose habits and customs differ but little from those of their ancestors of the Inca days. Richer than any other in the remains of walls and palaces of Inca construction, the cathedral, churches, convents, and palaces built during the Spanish occupation are the best specimens of colonial architecture extant.

At the quaint and narrow city gate the road contracted into little better than a lane, its open drains clogged and choked with refuse and filth. The houses on either side were two stories in height and quite modern in their stucco and gaudy decorations. After all we had heard and read of Cuzco, these our first impressions were most disappointing, but as if by magic all save the filth was changed, for the street quite suddenly and unexpectedly opened upon the center of the three large plazas of the town, and we found ourselves in the midst of the ancient city itself.—From "Cuzco, the Sacred City of Incas," by S. S. Howland, in the February "Scribner."

Facing the Day of Judgment.

Miss Caroline Lockhart describes her feelings when taking "The Wildest Boat Ride in America" in February "Outing." She says:

"If by any chance there is a person who would like to experience the sensations of a man about to be hanged I can tell him exactly how to get them.

"Cowards die many deaths before their time, it has been said, and I died so frequently shooting the rapids of the Salmon River between Salmon City, Idaho, and the placer diggings of the Salmon River Mining Company, one hundred and fifty miles below, that the grave no longer holds any terrors for me. Even the distinction of being one of the first two women ever to attempt this hazardous trip was no solace to me at times when I was less than a foot from my Everlasting Punishment, and at such moments glory seemed a puny thing indeed."

The Awakening Yellow Race.

In the February "American Magazine" there is an extraordinary contribution from Lincoln Colcord, the well known writer, who has spent many years in the Orient. He says that the most wonderful transformation in the world is going on in China. He goes on to say:

"China will not take up with the West as Japan has done. The problem for China is a deeper one. She needs immense changes: three centuries of Manchu rule have well-nigh crippled her. It begins to look as if the Manchu dynasty were to be saved—in name, at least. I suppose it's necessary, for the present. The great thing is to choke off these devilish Christian nations. Yuan is a wonderful man, the future will show how sincere he is. Is he the Sage, too, I wonder, that China needs more than the Administrator? Is he a superior man, according to Confucius? Will he be the Prophet of China, as well as her savior—the Chinese Charlemagne. Such a man, with powers, in a reign of thirty or forty years, could accomplish the transformation of a quarter of the population of the world!

"The task calls for wisdom—above all things. It is not a question of remodeling a people to a known standard, as with the Japanese; it is a question of drawing out the latent strength of a people marvelously sound and able, but, as you might say, cowed, bound, crushed. It is a question of what to take up and what not to take up; not a question of how best to take up everything. The stamping out of the opium evil in a space of five years—an economic as well as a moral problem, and a thing practically accomplished,—is proof enough, and to spare of the power of the Chinese people."

Our Gardens Come and Go.

Frank A. Waugh, professor of landscape-gardening at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, writes an article in the February "Woman's Home Companion" on "Short-Order Gardens," in which he tells what can be done in one season with annuals. "Annuals" are flowers which are the product of a single summer. Of the difference between English and American gardens, Professor Waugh says:

"The greatest difference between the English and American gardening lies just here: the English take more time; the Americans are always in haste. One rarely sees, or at least one rarely notices, an English garden which is not at least twenty-five or fifty years old. In America one can hardly find a garden with more than five years of maturity upon it.

"Quite demonstrably, then, the annuals become the characteristically American flowers. They are the product of a single summer. Some of them can be planted, grown, blossomed, and harvested in three months. That brings them within the range of the family rusticating in a rented mountain cottage while paterfamilias is gone to Yokohama on a business trip. Even the commonest and best-settled families feel the urge of our American haste. We must all have immediate results. And in gardening that means the annuals."

Try as we may, we cannot, in our estimation of friends and acquaintances, help being influenced by the appearance of their homes. Just as we usually judge a man by his clothes, so our impressions are either favorable or unfavorable, according to the exercise of taste and the indications of refinement in the home life of our associates.

There are only a few friends with whom we become sufficiently intimate to form a true opinion which is not influenced by external appearances, superficial though they may be; for practically all the people we know have created some distinct impression upon our minds by their appearance, personality, and mode of living. In fact, it is said that people reveal their true dispositions by the selection and care of their dwellings; so perhaps it is not unwise to consider the home a good criterion by which to judge a man's—or a woman's—character.

We all take a natural pride in the appearance of our homes; we want our neighbors and acquaintances to know that we are people of discrimination and culture. The house must not appear weather-beaten, but bright, cheerful, and attractive; the garden, shrubbery and trees must look well-cared-for; the walks in proper condition.—Frederick C. Kennilworth in the Feb. SUBURBAN LIFE.

New Turbine.

Allan L. Benson in the February World-To-Day in writing of Nikola Tesla states that the great electrical inventor has a new turbine which could drive the Lusitania across the Atlantic at the rate of 50 miles an hour. "That means less than three days to cross the Atlantic upon the same coal supply that is now used. But I have a ship in mind that my turbine could put across the Atlantic in 16 hours. But the world need not wait for the 50 miles an hour ship. The turbine that can drive it is here. The best type of reciprocating engine yeilds only 51 per cent. of the energy that is contained in the steam. The turbines that drive the Lusitania and the Mauretania yield 62 per cent. My turbine yields 99 per cent."

MARRIAGES.

REDDING—BUCHER — St. Francis Xavier church was filled with the relatives and friends of bride and groom on Tuesday morning of last week to witness the wedding of Miss Maud Bucher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larkin Bucher of Cumberland township and Bernard W. Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam V. Redding of same township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Dougherty. The bride wore a handsome gown of white messaline silk. The attendants were Miss Laura Butt, who wore a gown of pink silk and Edward Swisher. Misses Grace Ramer and Gertrude Slonaker were flower girls and Miss Mary Ramer played the wedding march. A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents and the young people took the afternoon train for a wedding trip to Philadelphia and Baltimore. They will reside on groom's farm near Fairfield.

WOLF — CROMER — On Thursday, Jan. 18, Emory M. Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wolf, residing between New Oxford and New Chester and Miss Carrie Cromer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cromer, of near Diehl's mill, were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage, New Oxford, by Rev. Dr. Korn.

HINKLE—BUSHEY—Miss Eliza E Bushey, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bushey of Latimore township, and John B. Hinkle of Clear Springs, were married Thursday, Jan 18 by Rev. Paul Gladfelter.

TROUT—STOUFFER—Mrs Elizabeth Stouffer, Hagerstown, and George Trout, of Adams county, were married January 17 at the bride's home in Hagerstown, by Rev. G. I Rider.

LINDBLOM — MOTTER.—Ernest Lindblom, Northern Central Railway wreck foreman, of York, and Miss Emma Motter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Motter, Littlestown, were married in York last Tuesday, by Rev. Joseph Peters, pastor of Emmanuel Reformed Church.

ABBOTTSTOWN.

Quite a long siege of cold weather we are having and no doubt our prophets are anxiously awaiting the famous ground hog day when they will have a chance to have the verities of their prophetic vision tested by the public, much to their comfort or displeasure.

Mrs. Rachel Wolf and Mrs. Hilary Wolf are on the sick list. Mrs. Henry Wolf, while butchering at Aaron Wolf's, received a slight paralytic stroke rendering her unconscious and causing here to fall to the floor. She also has an attack of erysipelas. At this writing she is somewhat improved but Mrs. Rachel Wolf's condition is little better.

Spring sales are already at hand, now let everybody get ready to put in the highest bid, if they desire to get.

The Council of St. John's Lutheran Church contemplate installing a heating plant and conveniences in the parsonage and a modern system of lighting in the church. Contracts will be given to the lowest bidder for the best job.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Baker have recovered from an attack of quinsy.

WONDER WHO?

McSherrystown Rally.

The third teachers' rally will be held at McSherrystown on Saturday, February 10, 1912.

The primary teachers and rural teachers will hold separate sessions in the pubilic school building in the morning beginning at 10 o'clock. In the afternoon a joint meeting will be held in St. Mary's hall.

The noon lunch will be served in the basement of St. Mary's Hall, and teachers who expect to attend the rally are requested to inform Miss Bernardina Corrigan.

Good programs for the meeting have been planned.

Music will be furnished by the McSherrystown Orchestra and the school children of McSherrystown borough and Conewago township. Look for the detailed program in the county papers next week.

Tribute to Pastor.

Rev. Charles M. Stock, D. D. pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, by reason of his ill health handed his resignation to his church council last week. His council paid him a high compliment and tribute in accepting the resignation to take effect October 1, 1912 when the 25th Anniversary of his pastorate will be celebrated.

Clerical Changes.

Bishop Shanahan has made several changes in the assignments of priests in his diocese. Rev. Father Dougherty has been transferred from Sunbury to Gettysburg. Rev. Brown goes from Mt. Alto to Sunbury. Rev. [illegible] has been transferred from St. Patrick's, York to Mt. Alto. Rev. Murphy of Carlisle and Rev. Welsh of Midway change places. Rev. Smith, assistant at St. Patrick's York, and Rev. Thomas McEntee of Hanover, also change places.

Store Sold.

Harry W. Martin, of Littlestown has sold his green grocery store and business to John S. Miller, of Hanover. Mr Martin will engage in the grocery business in Philadelphia, where he has purchased two stores.

IT MUST BE TRUE.

Gettysburg Readers Must Come to That Conclusion.

It is not the telling of a single case in Gettysburg, but scores of citizens testify. Endorsement by people you know bears the stamp of truth. The following is one of the public statements made in this locality about Doan's Kidney Pills:

John J. Tawney, 234 Baltimore St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I hold Doan's Kidney Pills in high esteem and I always have a box in the house to use in case of need. I suffered from kidney complaint. My back ached constantly and often in the morning I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly get out of bed. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and caused me no end of annoyance. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so, getting them from the Peoples Drug Store and I was surprised by their promptness in relieving me. My health improved greatly and I now have no cause for complaint. Two years ago a member of my family publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills in my behalf and at this time I can confirm that statement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ADAMS CO. BOY MAKES GOOD

IN RESEARCH WORK IN THE LIFE OF WM. PENN.

Brings to Light Data of Great Value in the Life of the Founder of the State.

It has remained for an Adams county boy to make discoveries in the life of Wm. Penn, many of them two hundred years after they happened, events that have been hidden in letters and manuscripts hidden away in the libraries and collections in England. This Adams county boy is Albert Cook Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, former residents of York Springs. Mr. Myers was born in York Springs. His mother was Miss Sallie Cook, belonging to the well known Quaker family of that name in Menallen township and from whom comes the strain of Quaker blood in his veins. Mr. Myers is a nephew of Jacob T. Myers the jeweler of York Springs.

The works of William Penn, which have lain in neglect and obscurity for nearly two centuries, concealing many important facts pertaining to the colonization of Pennsylvania and the early history of a great portion of America, are soon to appear in book form from the pen of Albert Cook Myers, the well known historian, of Moylan, Delaware county, who has recently returned from England with a great fund of information, containing many revelations concerning Pennsylvania's founder, the existence of much of which had not even been suspected. Mr. Myers found over 1100 letters and manuscripts written by Penn, less than 40 per cent. of which have ever been published, which throw new light on many mooted questions and settle innumerable points in dispute.

Mr Myers search took him into the finest castles and manor-houses of England, where he was accorded the unusual privilege of minutely examining many private collections of papers and heirlooms of Penn which have never been exposed to public view. He made copies and photographs of everything bearing on the subjects which he found, all of which will be soon available to the American public, just as the lives and works of Washington, Franklin and other great Americans now are.

Penn's Mother Not Dutch.

One of the important discoveries made by Mr. Myers was that Penn's mother, who was Margaret Jasper, was not a Dutch woman, as is generally supposed. Instead of being a daughter of John Jasper, of Rotterdam, she was his wife. She was a full-blooded English woman and met Jasper in England. She was a widow for some time before she married Sir Admiral Penn. Mr. Myers has copies of the wills of both her father and first husband to prove this, but will disclose neither the wills nor Margaret Jasper's maiden name until his work is completed.

Many other important discoveries will be withheld until the publication of the books. The letters and papers which he has thus secured date from 1665 to 1712, including both the first and last letters written by Penn. Among the letters is probably the first one which Penn wrote upon his arrival in America. It is addressed to the Duke of Portland and is dated January 9, 1683.

Many Manuscripts Altered.

Penn was a more prolific writer than is generally supposed, having written over 100 books and many pamphlets. In many cases Mr. Myers found that the manuscripts already printed were inaccurately copied or deliberately altered by the publisher. In the new work now being prepared the writing, including all mistakes in grammar and punctuation, will be allowed to stand just as Penn wrote.

As an example of the striking character of some of the papers Mr. Myers stated that one of them fixes definitely the arrival of the Germans in Lancaster county, Pa., as 1710. In the Public Record Office, the depository of Government records, in London, over 100 letters were found; 21 were found in the collection of the Duke of Portland, and as many more in the collection of the Earl and Countess of Dartmouth. Similar success was met with in his search in the British Museum, the Bodlein Library of Oxford University and in collections in Birmingham, Manchester, Bristol and Colchester.

Mr. Myers had varied experiences in collecting his materials, and instead of having difficulty in gaining access to the many records and collections he found the English people hospitable and anxious to help him. In some instances persons hearing of his mission wrote to him informing him of manuscripts and letters in their possession and inviting him to call and examine them. The majority of the papers he found in the homes of the aristocracy and the descendants of Penn, all of the latter of whom he found to be members of the English gentry.

Headquarters in Old Meeting House.

Being a Quaker and a member of one of the oldest Philadelphia families of that sect, he was shown much consideration by the English Society of Friends, who officially welcomed him to England at the London Yearly Meeting. They gave him an office and a secretary, without charge, in old Devonshire House, in Bishopsgate, where Penn visited and attended meetings for many years and which is now used by the Friends as their headquarters.

Devonshire House was bought by the Quakers after the great fire of 1666. It is situated within the old walled city of London not far from where Penn was born and but a short distance from the Tower of London, where he suffered imprisonment. It exists today as it did at the time of Penn, and amid these inspiring surroundings Mr. Myers pursued his work.

Devonshire House contains the largest Quaker library in the world, all of Penn's treaties with the Indians and much other valuable date being on file there. Three unpublished diaries of Penn, spread over a number of years, and a letter written to Penn by James Fox, an early Quaker settler of Pennsylvania, all of which contain highly important information, were found there.

Presented to King George.

Through the influence of Ambassador Reid, Mr Myers was presented to King George when he was granted the special dispensation of appearing at Court without a sword. This was in accordance with a precedent established over a hundred years ago, when Quakers were given this privilege because of their opposition to war. Mr. Myers, learning of this custom, applied for the privilege and was the first American to receive it.

Because of his recognition by royalty Mr Myers was given entree to the homes of the aristocracy and was entertained by such dignitaries as the Duke of Devonshire, heir of Penn's sister; the Duke of Portland, the Duke of Sutherland, Sir Joseph Dimsdale, ex-Mayor of London, whose ancestor came to America with Penn; Honorable Arthur Capell, son of the Earl of Essex; Sir Henry Havelock Allan, who has a large collection of Penn portraits, and Colonel William Duga'd Stuart, a descendant of Penn and head of the Penn family in England who still owns lands in Pennsylvania and has a large collection of relics and manuscripts of Penn. He was entertained by the British Empire, Saville and Reform Clubs, the most exclusive of London, and was asked to address many audiences.

Honored by Penn's Descendants.

One of the entertainments which he attended was a dinner to 25 descendants of Penn arranged in his honor by the Duke of Sutherland. One of the diners in responding to a toast declared that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should reimburse the descendants of Charles II for the uneven bargain, of which they were the losers in the granting to Penn of the vast lands in this State in payment of a comparatively small debt to Penn's father. Another diner replied to the effect that Pennsylvania would probably consider such a proposition if any descendants of Charles II could be found, whereupon the Duchess of Sutherland arose and stated that she was proud to be able to say that she was a descendant of Charles II.

Another person whom Mr. Myers visited in his quest for information was W. T. Stead, editor of The Review of Reviews, who is an ardent spiritualist. When Mr. Myers explained his mission to Mr. Stead the latter, in seriousness, asked him why he did not consult a spirit medium and have a personal interview with Penn as a short-cut in his search.

Mr. Myers also visited "Pennsylvania Castle," on the Isle of Portland, which was the last home of the Penns, and it was here that he found the last letter written by Penn and had a photograph made of it. Penn died of apoplexy while in the act of writing the letter and ink marks on it show where the pen dropped from his hand when he was stricken.

To Make Further Researches.

Mr. Myers spent nine months in England, and even devoted a short time to investigations on the Continent. He will remain in this country until May or June when he will return to London. His secretary, who recently arrived from London, will assist him in his research in this country. The Penn manuscripts in this country are scattered throughout the West and South and New England, and Mr Myers expects to visit the owners of many of them and make copies. He requests that all persons having such papers communicate with him.

Strange as it may seem no adequate collection of Penn's writings have ever been published, only four meagre and antiquated editions of the collected works ever having been printed. The fullest edition, which was printed in 1726, consisted of two volumes and contained but 50 of the 1100 papers found by Mr. Myers. A second edition, of one volume, which contained selections from the first editionq, was printed in 1771. In 1785 a third edition, consisting of a reprint, of five volumes, was printed, and in 1825 a fourth edition, of three volumes, also a reprint, was published. All of these were printed in London.

Hat Trimming Invention.

A new invention for trimming hats has been made by an Adams county man. The device is a combination of hat trimming and display stand, which can be adjusted to any height. It has four movable arms to hold the hat, which are attached to a revolving ball-bearing head, permitting the hat to be placed at any angle desired by the trimmer, without adjustment.

The model is made of steel, full nickel plated, and is as ornamental as useful. This invention is considered by competent judges to be practical and will save a great deal of extra labor in hat trimming and relieve the strain on the part of the trimmers.

The inventor is John Steich of near Littlestown, and H. W. and C. F. Kline of Sell's Station are the patentees—a patent having been obtained about three months ago.

The model will be shipped within a few days to a large manufacturing establishment in Chicago, which has contracted to make stands, and at an early period they will be placed on the market.

A number of propositions for purchasing the patent were received but they were declined.

The selling price of the stand it is said will be so moderate that every up-to-date milliner will perceive the necessity of placing one or more in their establishments.

ONLY THOUGHT WAS TO HELP

She was going to get off the car a few blocks further on and had a great longing to powder her nose before she alighted so that when she kept her tryst with him she should not present a shiny tip. The woman sitting next to her was of the critical sisters, who had looked her up and down from boots to bonnet when she entered the car. The woman with the shiny nose felt certain if she surreptitiously tried to extract her powder rag from her purse and dabble her tip with it the woman at her side would glare horribly. But as her street drew near she determined to risk it anyhow and trust to Providence that a quick dab would accomplish the desired result. She dabbed—blindly and hurriedly. But the woman saw her. She could feel the glare turned in her direction. Then, to her infinite amazement, the woman whipped open her reticule and extracted a small mirror. This she handed to her neighbor with an understanding smile. "Better take it, my dear—there's a gob of powder on the left side near your eye." The other woman, in her gratitude, forgave the glare previously administered, and remembered the good old adage, one touch of powder makes the feminine world kin.

PUT END TO FROG-FARMING

Audubon's Scheme Might Have Been Good but for One Small, Unforeseen Incident.

There is an amusing story told in connection with the first venture in frog-farming ever made in the United States.

Early in the last century Audubon, the great ornithologist, went down the Ohio river from Pennsylvania in a little steamer of his own, stopping at various points to obtain specimens of little-known birds.

While at Hendersonville, Kentucky, which he made his home for some time, he built a mill and proposed to raise frogs on a large scale, preparing for that purpose a pond near the river.

The frogs multiplied wonderfully, and on warm summer evenings it was the practice of Audubon to sit under a tree near the pond, listening to the concert given by his stock, and calculating the amount of money he should derive from the sale of the grown frogs.

But one night, when the frogs were nearly grown, they heard the booming of bullfrogs in the Ohio. Their curiosity was aroused, and hopping out of the pond, they made their way to the river, into which they plunged and disappeared!

Systematic Writing.

All busy women know the value of system, and every busy woman should systematize her daily tasks.

In the matter of letter writing many women are great procrastinators. They persistently leave important letters unanswered until the last possible moment, and then have to write a hurried note, often forgetting to take up important subjects for discussion.

The best way to do is to have one day or evening set apart for weekly letter writing. One woman reserves Tuesday morning for this purpose, and she allows none but the most pressing duties to interfere with her writing.

While reading a letter she will jot down any particular thing she wants to mention in the reply on the back of the envelope, place it in the letter rack on her desk and when Tuesday comes has all the week's correspondence ready for answering before her. If during the interim of the receipt and answering of a letter she thinks of any point she wished discussed, that, too, is noted on the envelope.

With this system letter writing is a real pleasure—one that is looked forward to every week with keen interest.

DR. WILEY DISCUSSES "BACK TO THE FARM."

Farming requires the greatest industry, the keenest intellect, and the best training of all of the professions.

A day's skilled labor on the farm at the present time produces twice as much food as it did fifty years ago.

Paying cash for labor is a burden to the farmer which is well-nigh intolerable; and yet if he does his own work, he must either have a very small farm or a very large family of boys and girls, who, moreover, are likely to leave him as they approach their majority.

What, then, are we to do to stop the flowing of the best blood of the farm to the city? The answer, it seems to me, is a simple one: make the farm a more productive place than the city, and its prospects for a career more certain.

When people come back from the city to the farm, as I picture the farm in the future, it will not be to lead a life of dreary labor, but rather to engage in an occupation which will command intelligence and the best business capacity.

When the city comes back to the country, it will come with culture, with intelligence, and with knowledge. The science and art of agriculture, drafting into its service, as it is doing at the present time, every other science, will so increase productivity that no Malthus nor Sir William Crooks will ever arise again and prophesy starvation for humanity.—Extracts from an article by Harvey W Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, in the February "Century."

Cuzco, in Peru, the sacred city of the Incas, their capital, and for many years after its conquest by Pizarro, in 1534, the capital of the Spaniards, is undoubtedly the most historically interesting city of South America It lies on a hill-side, at the head of and facing a beautiful valley. At its back a range of low mountains, in front, as if closing the valley, Mount Blancopala (altitude over twenty thousand feet), the snows and glaciers of which rank among the finest in the Andes. Its population of some twenty-six thousand is mainly (four-fifths) composed of Indians, whose habits and customs differ but little from those of their ancestors of the Inca days. Richer than any other in the remains of walls and palaces of Inca construction, the cathedral, churches, convents, and palaces built during the Spanish occupation are the best specimens of colonial architecture extant.

At the quaint and narrow city gate the road contracted into little better than a lane, its open drains clogged and choked with refuse and filth. The houses on either side were two stories in height and quite modern in their stucco and gaudy decorations. After all we had heard and read of Cuzco, these our first impressions were most disappointing, but as if by magic all save the filth was changed, for the street quite suddenly and unexpectedly opened upon the center of the three large plazas of the town, and we found ourselves in the midst of the ancient city itself.—From "Cuzco, the Sacred City of Incas," by S. S. Howland, in the February "Scribner."

Facing the Day of Judgment.

Miss Caroline Lockhart describes her feelings when taking "The Wildest Boat Ride in America" in February "Outing." She says:

"If by any chance there is a person who would like to experience the sensations of a man about to be hanged I can tell him exactly how to get them

"Cowards die many deaths before their time, it has been said, and I died so frequently shooting the rapids of the Salmon River between Salmon City, Idaho, and the placer diggings of the Salmon River Mining Company, one hundred and fifty miles below, that the grave no longer holds any terrors for me. Even the distinction of being one of the first two women ever to attempt this hazardous trip was no solace to me at times when I was less than a foot from my Everlasting Punishment, and at such moments glory seemed a puny thing indeed."

The Awakening Yellow Race.

In the February "American Magazine" there is an extraordinary contribution from Lincoln Colcord, the well known writer, who has spent many years in the Orient. He says that the most wonderful transformation in the world is going on in China. He goes on to say:

"China will not take up with the West as Japan has done. The problem for China is a deeper one. She needs immense changes; three centuries of Manchu rule have well-nigh crippled her. It begins to look as if the Manchu dynasty were to be saved—in name, at least. I suppose it's necessary, for the present. The great thing is to choke off these devilish Christian nations. Yuan is a wonderful man; the future will show how sincere he is. Is he the Sage, too, I wonder, that China needs more than the Administrator? Is he a superior man, according to Confucius? Will he be the Propnet of China, as well as her savior—the Chinese Charlemagne. Such a man, with powers, in a reign of thirty or forty years, could accomplish the transformation of a quarter of the population of the world!

"The task calls for wisdom—above all things. It is not a question of remodeling a people to a known standard, as with the Japanese; it is a question of drawing out the latent strength of a people marvelously sound and able, but, as you might say, cowed, bound, crushed. It is a question of what to take up and what not to take up; not a question of how best to take up everything The stamping out of the opium evil in a space of five years—an economic as well as a moral problem, and a thing practically accomplished.—is proof enough, and to spare of the power of the Chinese people.."

Our Gardens Come and Go.

Frank A. Waugh, professor of landscape-gardening at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, writes an article in the February "Woman's Home Companion" on "Short-Order Gardens," in which he tells what can be done in one season with annuals. "Annuals" are flowers which are the product of a single summer. Of the difference between English and American gardens, Professor Waugh says:

"The greatest difference between the English and American gardening lies just here: the English take more time; the Americans are always in haste. One rarely sees, or at least one rarely notices, an English garden which is not at least twenty-five or fifty years old In America one can hardly find a garden with more than five years of maturity upon it.

"Quite demonstrably, then, the annuals become the characteristically American flowers. They are the product of a single summer. Some of them can be planted, grown, blossomed, and harvested in three months. That brings them within the range of the family rusticating in a rented mountain cottage while paterfamilias is gone to Yokohama on a business trip. Even the commonest and best-settled families feel the urge of our American haste. We must all have immediate results. And in gardening that means the annuals."

Judging by Surroundings.

Try as we may, we cannot, in our estimation of friends and acquaintances, help being influenced by the appearance of their homes. Just as we usually judge a man by his clothes, so our impressions are either favorable or unfavorable, according to the exercise of taste and the indications of refinement in the home life of our associates

There are only a few friends with whom we become sufficiently intimate to form a true opinion which is not influenced by external appearances, superficial though they may be; for practically all the people we know have created some distinct impression upon our minds by their appearance, personality, and mode of living In fact, it is said that people reveal their true dispositions by the selection and care of their dwellings; so perhaps it is not unwise to consider the home a good criterion by which to judge a man's—or a woman's—character.

We all take a natural pride in the appearance of our homes; we want our neighbors and acquaintances to know that we are people of discrimination and culture. The house must not appear weather-beaten, but bright, cheerful, and attractive; the garden, shrubbery and trees must look well-cared-for; the walks in proper condition — Frederick C Kendilworth in the Feb. SUBURBAN LIFE.

New Turbine.

Allan L. Benson in the February World To-Day in writing of Nikola Tesla states that the great electrical inventor has a new turbine which could drive the Lusitania across the Atlantic at the rate of 50 miles an hour. "That means less than three days to cross the Atlantic upon the same coal supply that is now used. But I have a ship in mind that my turbine could put across the Atlantic in 16 hours But the world need not wait for the 50 miles an hour ship The turbine that can drive it is here. The best type of reciprocating engine yeilds only 51 per cent. of the energy that is contained in the steam. The turbines that drive the Lusitania and the Mauretania yield 62 per cent. My turbine yields 99 per cent."

MARRIAGES.

REDDING—BUCHER — St. Francis Xavier church was filled with the relatives and friends of bride and groom on Tuesday morning of last week to witness the wedding of Miss Maud Bucher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larkin Bucher of Cumberland township and Bernard W. Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam V. Redding of same township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Dougherty. The bride wore a handsome gown of white messaline silk. The attendants were Miss Laura Butt, who wore a gown of pink silk and Edward Swisher. Misses Grace Ramer and Gertrude Slonaker were flower girls and Miss Mary Ramer played the wedding march. A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents and the young people took the afternoon train for a wedding trip to Philadelphia and Baltimore. They will reside on groom's farm near Fairfield.

WOLF — CROMER — On Thursday, Jan. 18, Emory M. Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wolf, residing between New Oxford and New Chester and Miss Carrie Cromer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cromer, of near Diehl's mill, were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage, New Oxford, by Rev. Dr. Korn.

HINKLE—BUSHEY—Miss Eliza E Bushey, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bushey of Latimore township, and John B Hinkle of Clear Springs, were married Thursday, Jan 18 by Rev. Paul Gladfelter.

TROUT—STOUFFER—Mrs Elizabeth Stouffer, Hagerstown, and George Trout, of Adams county, were married January 17 at the bride's home in Hagerstown, by Rev. G. I Rider.

LINDBLOM — MOTTER.—Ernest Lindblom, Northern Central Railway wreck foreman, of York, and Miss Emma Motter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Motter, Littlestown, were married in York last Tuesday, by Rev. Joseph Peters, pastor of Emmanuel Reformed Church.

ABBOTTSTOWN.

Quite a long siege of cold weather we are having and no doubt our prophets are anxiously awaiting the famous ground hog day when they will have a chance to have the verities of their prophetic vision tested by the public, much to their comfort or displeasure.

Mrs. Rachel Wolf and Mrs. Henry Wolf are on the sick list. Mrs. Henry Wolf, while butchering at Aaron Wolf's, received a slight paralytic stroke rendering her unconscious and causing here to fall to the floor. She also has an attack of erysipelas. At this writing she is somewhat improved but Mrs. Rachel Wolf's condition is little better.

Spring sales are already at hand, now let everybody get ready to put in the highest bid, if they desire to get.

The Council of St. John's Lutheran Church contemplate installing a heating plant and conveniences in the parsonage and a modern system of lighting in the church. Contracts will be given to the lowest bidder for the best job.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Baker have recovered from an attack of quinsy.

IT MUST BE TRUE.

Gettysburg Readers Must Come to That Conclusion

It is not the telling of a single case in Gettysburg, but scores of citizens testify. Endorsement by people you know bears the stamp of truth. The following is one of the public statements made in this locality about Doan's Kidney Pills:

John J Tawney, 234 Baltimore St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I hold Doan's Kidney Pills in high esteem and I always have a box in the house to use in case of need. I suffered from kidney complaint. My back ached constantly and often in the morning I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly get out of bed. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and caused me no end of annoyance. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so, getting them from the Peoples Drug Store and I was surprised by their promptness in relieving me. My health improved greatly and I now have no cause for complaint. Two years ago a member of my family publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills in my behalf and at this time I can confirm that statement"

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

E B. SWOPE of Fairfield received word of the serious illness of his son Stanley who is a student at a business college in Lancaster The young man has a severe attack of pneumonia.

A Warning Against Wet Feet.

Wet and chilled feet usually affect the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs, and in grippe, bronchitis or pneumonia may result. Watch carefully, particularly the children, and for the racking stubborn coughs give Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It soothes the inflamed membranes, and heals the cough quickly. Take no substitute. For sale by Peoples Drug Store.

ADAMS CO. BOY MAKES GOOD

IN RESEARCH WORK IN THE LIFE OF WM. PENN.

Brings to Light Data of Great Value in the Life of the Founder of the State.

It has remained for an Adams county boy to make discoveries in the life of Wm. Penn, many of them two hundred years after they happened, events that have been hidden in letters and manuscripts hidden away in the libraries and collections in England This Adams county boy is Albert Cook Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, former residents of York Springs. Mr. Myers was born in York Springs. His mother was Miss Sallie Cook, belonging to the well known Quaker family of that name in Menallen township and from whom comes the strain of Quaker blood in his veins. Mr. Myers is a nephew of Jacob T. Myers the jeweler of York Springs.

The works of William Penn, which have lain in neglect and obscurity for nearly two centuries, concealing many important facts pertaining to the colonization of Pennsylvania and the early history of a great portion of America, are soon to appear in book form from the pen of Albert Cook Myers, the well known historian, of Moylan, Delaware county, who has recently returned from England with a great fund of information, containing many revelations concerning Pennsylvania's founder, the existence of much of which had not even been suspected. Mr. Myers found over 1100 letters and manuscripts written by Penn, less than 40 per cent. of which have ever been published, which throw new light on many mooted questions and settle innumerable points in dispute.

Mr Myers search took him into the finest castles and manor-houses of England, where he was accorded the unusual privilege of minutely examining many private collections of papers and heirlooms of Penn which have never been exposed to public view. He made copies and photographs of everything bearing on the subjects which he found, all of which will be soon available to the American public, just as the lives and works of Washington, Franklin and other great Americans now are.

One of the important discoveries made by Mr. Myers was that Penn's mother, who was Margaret Jasper, was not a Dutch woman, as is generally supposed. Instead of being a daughter of John Jasper, of Rotterdam, she was his wife. She was a full-blooded English woman and met Jasper in England. She was a widow for some time before she married Sir Admiral Penn. Mr Myers has copies of the wills of both her father and first husband to prove this, but will disclose neither the wills nor Margaret Jasper's maiden name until his work is completed.

Many other important discoveries will be withheld until the publication of the books The letters and papers which he has thus secured date from 1665 to 1712, including both the first and last letters written by Penn Among the letters is probably the first one which Penn wrote upon his arrival in America It is addressed to the Duke of Portland and is dated January 9, 1683

Many Manuscripts Altered.

Penn was a more prolific writer than is generally supposed, having written over 100 books and many pamphlets. In many cases Mr. Myers found that the manuscripts already printed were inaccurately copied or deliberately altered by the publisher. In the new work now being prepared the writing, including all mistakes in grammar and punctuation, will be allowed to stand just as Penn wrote.

As an example of the striking character of some of the papers Mr. Myers stated that one of them fixes definitely the arrival of the Germans in Lancaster county, Pa, as 1710 In the Public Record Office, the depository of Government records, in London, over 100 letters were found; 21 were found in the collection of the Duke of Portland, and as many more in the collection of the Earl and Countess of Dartmouth. Similar success was met with in his search in the British Museum, the Bodlein Library of Oxford University and in collections in Birmingham, Manchester, Bristol and Colchester.

Mr. Myers had varied experiences in collecting his materials, and instead of having difficulty in gaining access to the many records and collections he found the English people hospitable and anxious to help him. In some instances persons hearing of his mission wrote to him informing him of manuscripts and letters in their possession and inviting him to call and examine them. The majority of the papers he found in the homes of the aristocracy and the descendants of Penn, all of the latter of whom he found to be members of the English gentry.

Headquarters in Old Meeting House.

Being a Quaker and a member of one of the oldest Philadelphia families of that sect, he was shown much consideration by the English Society of Friends, who officially welcomed him to England at the London Yearly Meeting They gave him an office and a secretary, without charge, in old Devonshire House, in Bishopsgate, where Penn visited and attended meetings for many years and which is now used by the Friends as their headquarters.

Devonshire House was bought by the Quakers after the great fire of 1666. It is situated within the old walled city of London not far from where Penn was born and but a short distance from the Tower of London, where he suffered imprisonment. It exists today as it did at the time of Penn, and amid these inspiring surroundings Mr. Myers pursued his work.

Devonshire House contains the largest Quaker library in the world, all of Penn's treaties with the Indians and much other valuable data being on file there. Three unpublished diaries of Penn, spread over a number of years, and a letter written to Penn by James Fox, an early Quaker settler of Pennsylvania, all of which contain highly important information, were found there.

Presented to King George.

Through the influence of Ambassador Reid, Mr Myers was presented to King George when he was granted the special dispensation of appearing at Court without a sword. This was in accordance with a precedent established over a hundred years ago, when Quakers were given this privilege because of their opposition to war. Mr. Myers, learning of this custom, applied for the privilege and was the first American to receive it.

Because of his recognition by royalty Mr Myers was given entree to the homes of the aristocracy and was entertained by such dignitaries as the Duke of Devonshire, heir of Penn's sister; the Duke of Portland, the Duke of Sutherland, Sir Joseph Dimsdale, ex-Mayor of London, whose ancestor came to America with Penn; Honorable Arthur Capell, son of the Earl of Essex; Sir Henry Havelock Allan, who has a large collection of Penn portraits, and Colonel William Duga'd Stuart, a descendant of Penn and head of the Penn family in England who still owns lands in Pennsylvania and has a large collection of relics and manuscripts of Penn. He was entertained by the British Empire, Saville and Reform Clubs, the most exclusive of London, and was asked to address many audiences.

Honored by Penn's Descendants.

One of the entertainments which he attended was a dinner to 25 descendants of Penn arranged in his honor by the Duke of Sutherland. One of the diners in responding to a toast declared that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should reimburse the descendants of Charles II for the uneven bargain, of which they were the losers in the granting to Penn of the vast lands in this State in payment of a comparatively small debt to Penn's father. Another diner replied to the effect that Pennsylvania would probably consider such a proposition if any descendants of Charles II could be found, whereupon the Duchess of Sutherland arose and stated that she was proud to be able to say that she was a descendant of Charles II.

Another person whom Mr. Myers visited in his quest for information was W. T. Stead, editor of The Review of Reviews, who is an ardent spiritualist. When Mr. Myers explained his mission to Mr. Stead the latter, in seriousness, asked him why he did not consult a spirit medium and have a personal interview with Penn as a short-cut in his search.

Mr. Myers also visited "Pennsylvania Castle," on the Isle of Portland, which was the last home of the Penns, and it was here that he found the last letter written by Penn and had a photograph made of it. Penn died of apoplexy while in the act of writing the letter and ink marks on it show where the pen dropped from his hand when he was stricken.

To Make Further Researches.

Mr. Myers spent nine months in England, and even devoted a short time to investigations on the Continent. He will remain in this country until May or June when he will return to London. His secretary, who recently arrived from London, will assist him in his research in this country The Penn manuscripts in this country are scattered throughout the West and South and New England, and Mr. Myers expects to visit the owners of many of them and make copies. He requests that all persons having such papers communicate with him.

Strange as it may seem no adequate collection of Penn's writings have ever been published, only four meagre and antiquated editions of the collected works ever having been printed. The fullest edition, which was printed in 1726, consisted of two volumes and contained but 50 of the 1100 papers found by Mr. Myers. A second edition, of one volume, which contained selections from the first editiong, was printed in 1771. In 1785 a third edition, consisting of a reprint, of five volumes, was printed, and in 1825 a fourth edition, of three volumes, also a reprint, was published. All of these were printed in London.

Hat Trimming Invention.

A new invention for trimming hats has been made by an Adams county man. The device is a combination of hat trimming and display stand, which can be adjusted to any height. It has four movable arms to hold the hat, which are attached to a revolving ball-bearing head, permitting the hat to be placed at any angle desired by the trimmer, without adjustment

The model is made of steel, full nickel plated, and is as ornamental as useful. This invention is considered by competent judges to be practical and will save a great deal of extra labor in hat trimming and relieve the strain on the part of the trimmers.

The inventor is John Steich of near Littlestown, and H. W. and C. F. Kline of Sell's Station are the patentees—a patent having been obtained about three months ago.

The model will be shipped within a few days to a large manufacturing establishment in Chicago, which has contracted to make stands, and at an early period they will be placed on the market.

A number of propositions for purchasing the patent were received but they were declined.

The selling price of the stand it is said will be so moderate that every up-to-date milliner will perceive the necessity of placing one or more in their establishments.

ONLY THOUGHT WAS TO HELP

She was going to get off the car a few blocks further on and had a great longing to powder her nose before she alighted so that when she kept her tryst with him she should not present a shiny tip. The woman sitting next to her was of the critical sisters, who had looked her up and down from boots to bonnet when she entered the car. The woman with the shiny nose felt certain if she surreptitiously tried to extract her powder rag from her purse and dabble her tip with it the woman at her side would glare horribly. But as her street drew near she determined to risk it anyhow and trust to Providence that a quick dab would accomplish the desired result. She dabbed—blindly and hurriedly. But the woman saw her. She could feel the glare turned in her direction. Then, to her infinite amazement, the woman whipped open her reticule and extracted a small mirror. This she handed to her neighbor with an understanding smile. "Better take it, my dear—there's a gob of powder on the left side near your eye." The other woman, in her gratitude, forgave the glare previously administered, and remembered the good old adage, one touch of powder makes the feminine world kin.

PUT END TO FROG-FARMING

Audubon's Scheme Might Have Been Good but for One Small, Unforeseen Incident.

There is an amusing story told in connection with the first venture in frog-farming ever made in the United States.

Early in the last century Audubon, the great ornithologist, went down the Ohio river from Pennsylvania in a little steamer of his own, stopping at various points to obtain specimens of little-known birds.

While at Hendersonville, Kentucky, which he made his home for some time, he built a mill and proposed to raise frogs on a large scale, preparing for that purpose a pond near the river.

The frogs multiplied wonderfully, and on warm summer evenings it was the practice of Audubon to sit under a tree near the pond, listening to the concert given by his stock, and calculating the amount of money he should derive from the sale of the grown frogs.

But one night, when the frogs were nearly grown, they heard the booming of bullfrogs in the Ohio. Their curiosity was aroused, and hopping out of the pond, they made their way to the river, into which they plunged and disappeared!

Systematic Writing.

All busy women know the value of system, and every busy woman should systematize her daily tasks.

In the matter of letter writing many women are great procrastinators. They persistently leave important letters unanswered until the last possible moment, and then have to write a hurried note, often forgetting to take up important subjects for discussion.

The best way to do is to have one day or evening set apart for weekly letter writing. One woman reserves Tuesday morning for this purpose, and she allows none but the most pressing duties to interfere with her writing.

While reading a letter she will jot down any particular thing she wants to mention in the reply on the back of the envelope, place it in the letter rack on her desk and when Tuesday comes has all the week's correspondence ready for answering before her. If during the interim of the receipt and answering of a letter she thinks of any point she wished discussed, that, too, is noted on the envelope.

With this system letter writing is a real pleasure—one that is looked forward to every week with keen interest.

DROPSY TREATED FREE

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B. THE WELL-KNOWN HEART AND DROPSY SPECIALIST WILL SEND A NEW $2.50 TREATMENT FREE.

Many "Hopeless" Cases Soon Cured After 5 to 12 Doctors Failed.

At first, no disease is apparently more harmless than dropsy; a little swelling of the eyelids, hands, feet, ankles, or abdomen. Finally there is great shortness of breath, smothering spells, sitting up to breathe, cough, faint spells, sometimes nausea and vomiting, even bursting of the limbs and a lingering and wretched death if the dropsy is not removed.

Dr. Miles has been known as a leading specialist in these diseases for 26 years. His liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration. You may not have another opportunity.

The Grand Dropsy Treatment consists of four dropsy remedies in one, also Tonic Tablets, and Pura-Laxa for removing the water. This treatment is specially prepared for each patient and is at least ten times as successful as that of most physicians. It usually relieves the first day, and removes swelling in six days in most cases. Delay is dangerous.

Send for List of Remarkable Cures in Your State.

All afflicted readers may have the new Dropsy Book, Examination Chart, Opinion, Advice, and a Two-Pound Treatment free. Write at once. Describe your case. Address, Dr. Franklin Miles, Dept. D., Elkhart, Indiana, 408 to 418 Main Street.

fore marriage was Miss Susan Grove of York county, and one son, Oliver Nagle, at home. He is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. Jacob Goodenberger, Mrs. George Mout, Mrs. George Wilkinson and Miss Mary Nagle, residing with her sister, Mrs. Wilkinson, all living in Berwick township.

JOHN GILLAND of York, died at the home of his son-in-law, E. T. Hemler, Monday night of last week. He was about 76 years old. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. E. T. Hemler, with whom he lived, Mrs. Mary Peddicord of Baltimore, and Mrs. Annie Walker of Carlisle; and two sons, Geo. B. Gilland of Fairfield, and Henry Gilland of Hagerstown.

MRS. SUE P. SCHAFF died Tuesday of last week at the home of her son, Jacob G. Schaff, in Chambersburg. Mrs. Schaff had not been in robust health for some time past. Susan Peters Schaff was born near Bendersville, July 27, 1838. In 1860 she was married to the late Rev. J. G. Schaff, who was the founder of the People' Register of Chambersburg. Her husband's death occurred in 1881 leaving her a widow with seven children. She is survived by two sons, Bruce H. Schaff, Riverton, N. J., and Jacob G. Schaff of Chambersburg; two daughters, Mrs. H. M. Miley and Abigail A. Schaff, also by two brothers and one sister

FRANKLIN WM. LANSINGER, a leading citizen and contractor of Emmitsburg, died on last Wednesday, aged 78 years, 2 months and 16 days. He was born in Littlestown in 1835. He left Littlestown when a young man and married Cecelia Josephine Tyson of Emmitsburg. Later he engaged in the carpenter and contracting business with his brother-in-law, Bennett Tyson. For several years they conducted this business. During that time they erected several fine buildings including the magnificent structures at St. Joseph's Academy and College. The Presbyterian and Retormed Churches of Emmitsburg, also the Methodist Church of Tom's Creek, Annan, Horner and Company's Bank, St. Euphemia's School and many other buildings are the work of this firm. He is survived by his wife, five daughters and two sons, Mrs. Thomas C. Seltzer, wife of the contractor, Miss Teresa, organist Immaculate Church, Baltimore, Mrs. Wm. F. Hardy, wife of Superintendent Hardy of Philadelphia, Mrs. Joseph Welty, violin instructress of the High School, Emmitsburg, Miss Grace, organist St. Joseph's Church, Emmitsburg, Messrs. Tyson and Thomas, leading musicians and contractors, also of Emmitsburg.

Prompt Work by Authorities.

Two cases of diphtheria were reported last week, Gilbert Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bell of East Middle street, and May Menchey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Menchey of High street. Whether either of these cases can be traced to the single case of a month ago is a question that does not admit of absolute demonstration, specially in view of cases reported in the country and neighboring towns. The school authorities have acted promptly, closing the High Street building where the two children attended. The building was thoroughly fumigated yesterday. Many of our people sent the school clothing of their children to the school house to be fumigated when the rooms were so treated. The Board of Health is leaving nothing undone to enforce a rigid quarantine, such as the law contemplates. The disease has been caught in its incipiency by the authorities and every effective means will be resorted to in the effort to stamp it out. Our citizens should contribute to this end by obeying all regulations of the authorities, helping in the isolation which will result in keeping it under control.

The civil case of Chas. M. Fiscle vs. James E. Kissinger came to an end last week with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $106.11

WOMEN HELPED

By Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for Kidneys and Liver.

Disorders of women are the result of general bodily weakness. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is a strength builder and for women it has proved of great value. Thousands testify to this. A sick woman almost always has kidney trouble, which causes pain in the back, headache, nervousness and other distressing symptoms. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy helps the Kidneys and Liver to act properly, purifies the blood and gently moves the bowels, striking at the cause of Kidney, Liver, Blood and Bladder troubles. For over 35 years it has enjoyed steady and merited success, for it is an honest remedy and has stood the test of time. Write Dr. David Kennedy Co., Rondout, N. Y. for a free sample bottle and valuable medical booklet. Large bottle $1.00 at all druggists.

A Peculiarity of Carrots.

Although carrots are among the most commonly cooked vegetables in various forms—stewed, boiled, puree, soups and introduced into ragouts, braises and mirepoix—yet they are among the least digestible of vegetables; but, strange to say, notwithstanding their indigestibility, so far as regards form and substance, they are not known to cause any digestive derangement.

The great affection which cooks and their masters have for carrots can only be explained by their color, which makes an impression on the eye, and their flavor and sweetness, which speak to the palate.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Cholera Morbus.

"'Cholera morbus' is a term with a curious history," says the London Chronicle. "To our forefathers 'cholera' meant not necessarily a disease, but one of the four 'humors' present in every human body, as the bilious humor, excess of which made a man 'choleric.' 'Cholera' and 'choler,' in fact, meant just the same thing. So the comparatively mild ailment which we know as 'English' cholera was referred to as 'the disease cholera' or 'cholera morbus,' in order to distinguish it from the other sense of the word. Much later, when Asiatic cholera was introduced to the alarmed notice of this country, 'cholera' got transferred to it."

Real Loss.

"Dr. Sixthly, I've come in to ask you for the hand of your daughter. You must have seen how things were going?"

"Yes, yes. I'm not at all surprised. At the same time I cannot look upon the prospect with unmixed delight."

"I am very sorry, doctor. What is your objection?"

"I can have no real objection when my daughter's happiness is at stake. At the same time I realize that the church will be a heavy financial loser when its handsomest and most successful passer of the plate becomes a married man. Nevertheless she's yours, Clarence." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Wily Giraffe.

Perhaps the most difficult of all wild animals to capture is the giraffe. In addition to being very rare, giraffes are exceedingly timid and are very swift footed. There is no special way to capture a giraffe, as almost every way has been tried, and all have been almost equally unsuccessful. The method which has occasionally resulted in a capture is by using a long cord at each end of which is a round weight. This cord is thrown by the hunter in such a manner as to wind around the animal's legs, either bringing it to the ground or rendering it incapable of escaping before it is made a prisoner. Most of the giraffes in captivity have been caught by chance when young.—Chicago Journal.

BUSINESS.

"Perpetual devotion to what a man calls his business," says Stevenson, "is only to be sustained by perpetual neglect of many other things, and it is not by any means certain that a man's business is the most important thing he has to do." The man who makes business a continual excuse for not being public spirited, neighborly and godly is merely a shirker.

THE U. S. GOVERNMENT in its "Pure Food Law" does not "indorse" or "guarantee" any preparation, as some manufacturers in their advertisements would make it appear In the case of medicine the law provides that certain drugs shall be mentioned on the labels, if they are ingredients of the preparations. Ely's Cream Balm, the well-known family remedy for cold in the head, hay fever and nasal catarrh, doesn't contain a single injurious drug, so the makers have simply to print the fact that it complies fully with all the requirements of the law.

Kelly Versus Kelly

By Dorothy Douglas

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Kelly entered his office briskly, hung up his coat and prepared to glance through the mail. Because Kelly was big and good to look at and in many other ways an attractive lure for feminine hearts, there were a number of small, scented missives lurking among legal-looking documents and business letters.

These he put aside until the contents of the more important communications had been digested.

Kelly drew a cigar from his pocket. The day promised to be more or less dull. A young lawyer can only wait for clients. Kelly lit his cigar and when it was drawing well he elevated his feet to the desk and picked up the smaller envelopes.

As he glanced over his own name written in various feminine hands he smiled tenderly, cynically, reminiscently and finally questioningly. The writing on one neat, unscented envelope was not familiar to Kelly's eyes.

He opened it first, and read the contents:

"Dear Mr. Kelly—Your fiancee, Helen Ware, has made me promise to look you up as soon as I reached New York. I arrived only yesterday from Omaha and have taken the first opportunity I had for communicating with you. Since I am to be Helen's bridesmaid it might make the wedding more sociable if some of us had met you. I am to be in New York for three weeks and hope you will find time to call me up in the near future, so that I may write Helen that I have had the pleasure of meeting her future husband. 'Phone, 009 River. Sincerely yours,

VIRGINIA TRACY"

A cynical smile was master over surprise in Kelly's face.

"Another bunco game!" he muttered. "Letter sounds jolly though—guess I will see the game through."

Without a doubt in his mind as to the class of girl who had written him the letter, Kelly called the number, 009 River.

When he hung up the receiver he had made an engagement to call for Virginia Tracy at six o'clock that same evening. He turned to his other neglected feminine correspondents, but try as he might to forget the incident of the girl from Omaha he could hear only a rather shy voice that had answered his call at 009 River. Since business was far from pressing, Kelly spent much of the day wondering as to Virginia Tracy's appearance.

Toward five o'clock he turned homeward. He could not recall in his own history having been so particular as to the set of his evening clothes. He was to take Virginia Tracy to dinner and the theater.

Kelly and the girl from Omaha were sitting at a small table in the restaurant before the young lawyer realized the full extent of his luck. The eyes that shone through the candle light at his were big and gray and appealing; they looked sharply at him now and again as if in apology for their nearness to him.

During their short drive down in the taxi she had talked swiftly and nervously about Helen Ware, Omaha, and the approaching wedding. It had been quite unnecessary for Kelly to do more than agree in a noncommittal way, to anything she chose to say. He had found himself enjoying the musical voice even though he doubted the source of her words. He chided himself for a silly idiot. All bunco girls were soft and innocent and alluring! That was their stock in trade.

Kelly had never been in Omaha, nor had he so much as heard of Helen Ware, and he hoped now he never would, but he found that with Virginia Tracy's leads he could follow his role in the story with only occasional slips.

The girl across the table looked at him from time to time with vague questioning. That mute appeal went straight to Kelly's heart and before he led the girl from the restaurant he had begun to doubt his own identity. Perhaps there was a Helen Ware in Omaha, and perhaps she was engaged to a man named Kelly.

"Good goodness I'm not the Kelly!" muttered the young lawyer, as he piloted Virginia to a seat in the orchestra.

During the performance Kelly became satisfied in his own mind that there was a Helen Ware, that she was engaged to a Kelly and that Virginia Tracy was to be bridesmaid.

"I am glad you are not the bride," he said, unconsciously voicing his thoughts.

Virginia cast a startled glance at him, then burst into a laugh. "That is a very complimentary speech!"

A dull color mounted to the roots of Kelly's auburn hair and Virginia's eyes narrowed themselves into keen scrutiny.

"I only meant," Kelly fumbled for words, "that I would not have had this pleasure of meeting you—then."

"Still," Virginia stated with a laugh in her eyes, "a man generally has had the pleasure of meeting the girl to whom he is engaged."

"There are exceptions—to all rules," laughed Kelly and slipped from the dangerous subject.

After the theater they had supper and then a drive home through the park. Somehow, Helen Ware had dropped from the conversation.

At parting, Virginia looked up with a guilty flush. "I will write tonight and tell Helen how nice you have been to me," she said, and with a little nervous clasp of the hand she was gone.

Virginia flew with light feet up the stairs to her room. Her cheeks were flushed and she tried to escape from the memory of the expression in Kelly's eyes when he had touched her hand.

After a restless night she was awakened by the postman's whistle.

There was a letter for her from Helen Ware. After Virginia had conquered the emotions that had arisen at sight of Helen's writing she broke the seal.

"Dearest Vingy: This is just a scratch to tell you that I am almost sure I gave you the number 302 instead of 203 for Jim's office. I hope you haven't written yet as there are probably a dozen Kellys in each of those great office buildings—"

The letter dropped from Virginia's nerveless fingers. The whole awful mistake dawned on her. A storm of weeping burst over her. What had her companion of the evening before thought of her? There was no question in her mind save that, and Virginia flushed at her own reflection when she realized it.

The question was answered before nine o'clock when Virginia descended for breakfast.

A dozen of the most exquisite pink chrysanthemums awaited her. In the box she found a note. Kelly had spent a restless night, being unable to forgive himself for having taken so mean an advantage of a girl from the west. His apology was abject. Virginia found room for a smile in her eyes as she read Kelly's note.

"It wasn't entirely his fault," she whispered into the biggest of the chrysanthemums. "If I hadn't put the wrong address on, he couldn't possibly have done—what he did."

"And what did he do?" Virginia questioned herself.

A quick little laugh followed.

"We know—but we won't tell," the flowers nodded.

Spring Sale List.

The COMPILER is considered the best medium for advertising the spring sale. Sales are always printed from new type metal and it is most satisfactory service to have sale items clear. The COMPILER is a paper that is kept and read through and with a large circulation gives the spring sale advertiser exactly what he is looking for, to have a good sale. The COMPILER sale bill is the poster that catches—in yellow and red.

ASHAMED OF HER FACE

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Pickard of North Carolina. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema and that was three years ago."

This is but one of thousands of cases in which D. D. D. has simply washed away the skin trouble. D. D. D. cleanses the skin of the germs of Eczema, Psoriasis and other serious skin diseases; stops the itch instantly, and when used with D. D. D. soap the cures seem to be permanent. Nothing like D. D. D. for the complexion.

Trial bottle 25 cents, enough to prove the merit of this wonderful remedy.

We can also give you a full size bottle for $1.00 on our absolute guarantee that if this very first bottle fails to give you relief it will cost you nothing.
